Ishii's dynamic music sets the pace for this concert, combining of Western techniques with sounds of traditional Japanese music. On this occasion, virtuoso Ryan Scott will launch his new CD – Maki Ishii Live – performances recorded at Esprit concerts.

Sokolovic's Nine Proverbs, inspired by the painting of the same name by Brueghel the Younger (1564-1647), represents the painting's depiction of the proverbs through nine contrasting atmospheres connected by modes, chords, rhythmic structures and colours.

Chin's Rocanã (Sanskrit for "room of light") is a kaleidoscopic tonal sculpture translating light phenomena – distortions, refractions, reflections, undulations – into sound.

Silvestrov's Postludium begins with emotional outbursts, moves to lyrically pastoral meditation and dissolves in an "anti-cadenza" – a coda for the concert – lingering, suspended in time.
